JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, APRIL 6th, 1873.

RESOLUTIONS OF CENSURE.—Mr. Boyd, of Alabama, some days ago introduced resolutions of Censure upon the faithless Congressmen who had engaged directly or indirectly in the great salary steal. It was lost by an almost strict party vote—every Democrat voted to censure; but the Radicals could find nothing to condemn in the act. It was so much in keeping with their principles and practices, that their admiration rather than indignation was excited.

In speaking of this matter some days ago, we were free to denounce the transaction as a dishonor to both Radicals and Democrats in Congress who voted for it. The democratic press of the State spoke of the matter in the same way. Mr. Boyd in his speech in support of his resolutions, announced that they were not intended to apply to any particular party, and the democratic members of the Legislature supported him in his view of the case. But the Radical party of Alabama, through its Representatives at Montgomery, has deliberately put itself in the attitude of a champion of the rascals. We are glad of it. Whatever may be the state of the parties elsewhere, in Alabama the lines are clearly defined. Ignorance of both parties may combine to steal elsewhere, but not here. The Democrats condemn unqualifiedly the salary steal—the Radical party refuse to condemn. The democracy of Alabama will wash its hands of their members in Congress who have brought dishonor upon the party—the Radical party will receive them with open arms, as hail fellows well met.

What men do not condemn they may on occasion do. Since the Radical members of the Legislature do not condemn the action of Congressmen in voting themselves five thousand dollars more than they agreed to serve for, the Radical Legislature may imitate by voting themselves double pay. It behooves the people to look after those fellows who can view a theft so complacently, and see to it that they do not get a majority in the next Legislature. To prevent this they must all turn out and vote at the next election.

It was our pleasure to take a trip to our neighboring county of Cleburne, last week, and be present at Edwardsville, the county seat, during the holding of the circuit court. The trip, though rather rough, was pleasant.

The town of Edwardsville, we found to be something new, but giving evidence of growth and future improvement. Many new houses were going up, and several others we learned were soon to be commenced. If the projected railroad passes through it, its improvement will surpass the wildest dreams of its inhabitants. We trust that we may soon be able to ride there behind the iron horse.

The court docket was not heavy, which speaks well for the morality and law-abiding spirit of the people. His honor, Judge Whitlock, disposed of the docket very rapidly and court was over at the end of four days.

The people of Edwardsville are noted far and wide for their warm hospitality and friendly treatment of visitors. We are under special obligations to many of our friends there, among whom we may mention Judge Hume and Mr. Johnston, county Treasurer and Register in Chancery.

The Democracy of the county we learned during our stay were on rising ground and in no way afraid of losing the next election. Indeed the party there has steadily increased, until now it overtops its opponent some hundreds of votes. How could it be otherwise, when it numbers in its ranks such men as Wm. Henry, Esq., Col. John C. Barker, Wm. P. Evans, Esq., J. W. Wigginton, Esq., Hon. W. P. Howell, B. Owen, Esq., the Walkers, Crothers, and hosts of other true, noble and patriotic men, who love their country too well to sacrifice its interest for any mere personal advantage. All honor to the gallant Democracy of Cleburne.

The Republican party we found to be an entirely different article from that found in South Alabama. The Republicans of Cleburne are not negro equality men. They are men who were opposed to the war, and split with the Democracy on that issue. But for the war issue there is really nothing to divide the parties. As that is a dead issue, let us hope that the time may not be far distant, when the men of Cleburne, regardless of past party distinctions, will be found in one solid phalanx, shoulder to shoulder, in opposition to the great negro equality State plundering thieves, who assail the rights, interests, opinions and honor of white men everywhere.

We have been permitted to see some specimens of monument work, for which our esteemed friend, John A. Fleming, is agent. The monument is made of an amalgam composed of hydraulic cement and other material, and very much resembles marble, when finely finished off. It is quite as pretty as marble, almost as durable, and costs only about one-tenth as much. Those monuments may be cast into any design, however rich or fanciful. No one, however poor, can longer have excuse for neglecting to mark the last resting places of loved ones, since this pretty and durable monument has come into use. It is patented.

Mr. Fleming goes to Newnan, Ga., to sell them.

Rev. Ed. McMillen and E. Gooden, of this place are also Agents for St. Clair county.

The recent passage of the Bill through both branches of the Alabama Legislature for the purchase of West Florida at one million of dollars, reminds us of the boast of a citizen of that fertile State, who said much of it would produce nineteen bushels of Bull Frogs to the acre and Alligators enough to fence it in. We doubt not however, that its productivity in sealawags and carpet buggers had more weight with the Radicals, than even the useful animals named.

An Increase of over Fifty-four Millions in Government Expenses.

The total amount of the various appropriation bills passed at the last session of Congress exceeds the amount of the previous session at least fifty-four millions of dollars. The details of the various appropriations are as follows: Preliminary deficiency, $1,039,833; Texan Border Commission, $18,490; pensions, $30,480,000; American and British Claims Commission, $613,500; Indian, $5,512,218; fortification, $1,899,000; consular and diplomatic, $1,311,359; Military Academy, $44,217; legislative, executive and judicial estimated, $19,500,000; naval $22,757; army, $31,795,008; post office $3,529,167; river and harbor, $6,112,000; sundry civil, $32,175,415; deficiency, $9,242,871. Total, $195,510,838.

The New York Herald, which has all along been a zealous supporter of the Grant administration, says: "With the expiration of this debauched and degraded Congress passes away the Republican party. No continued professions of virtue and reform can save the political organization whose leading members, with a large majority in both Houses of Congress, have shielded corruptionists and perjurers, and thus made themselves responsible, as a party for the offences they were too cowardly or too base to condemn."

The Democrats elected mayor of Milwaukee and the entire Democratic County ticket.

NOVA SCOTIA.

Halifax, April 2.

Only three or four cabin passengers were saved from the wreck of the Atlantic—one Englishman and three Frenchmen. Only one lady passenger attempted to save herself; she was frozen to death in the rigging and fell into the water. Some of the passengers arrived in this city to-day and gave harrowing details of the calamity. The names of officers or passengers saved are not known as yet. The Relief is expected up at 2 o'clock. The Atlantic had eight hundred and fifty steerage passengers and thirty saloon. There had been two births during the voyage. The crew numbered 142 and there were 14 stowaways discovered.

Three hundred in all were saved out of the total number of 1,038. There is nothing in the shape of documents saved from the steamship Atlantic. The list of passengers will be obtained if possible upon the return of the steamers from the wreck.

A steerage passenger makes the following statement: "I turned into my berth about 11 o'clock Monday night. The night was dark, but starlight and weather fine. I knew the ship was going into Halifax for coal. The last I remember was that two bells at one o'clock struck. I then went to sleep, and woke up with a shock and remarked to my mate, 'there goes anchor.' I thought of course we were safe in Halifax harbor, but as soon as we made the second plunge, I said, 'Good God she is ashore.' At that we got up and dressed. The companion way was thronged with lower steerage passengers. Seeing that the sea was commencing to break over the ship and lower down the companion way, I got as many as possible to take the bunks and hold on by the iron stanchions there until after daylight. The ship had fallen over one side only being out of it. Our only chance of escape was the ports. Numbers of men—probably twenty—got out through the ports to the side of the vessel. I remained until all who were alive were out. There were a great many drowned in their bunks, and others were drowned while trying to reach the ports. I got out through a port and held fast to the side of the ship for about two hours and then went to shore by the line. When I left the ship there were still a great many in the rigging. Of the steerage passengers 413 are known to be saved, and about the same number lost."

A few days ago a very serious difficulty occurred in Cross Plains, at the place of business of Mr. John Faughender, in which Mr. Hugh Vincent, of Cherokee County was badly out by a negro. It seems that Mr. Vincent had brought a lot of corn to Mr. Faughender. While Messrs. F. & V. were inside the house, engaged in a settlement, three drunken negroes named Andy O'Neal, Bill Hawkins and Jo. Alexander, came up and raised a difficulty with Tom Daniel, Mr. V's negro driver, who was in charge of his team at the door. Some words passed, when the driver came running into the house, pursued by two of the negroes with drawn knives, imploring the protection of his employer. Mr. Vincent interposed and ordered the men to put up their knives and leave the house. One of them obeyed, one of them never entered the house, but the third one—the who did the stabbing—was insolent, and threatened Mr. V. in a very insolent manner. To intimidate him, Mr. V. rubbed his stick against his head and again ordered him to leave the house and let his driver alone; when quick as thought, the negro stabbed him in the back. The knife passed into his shoulder six inches toward the region of the bladder. It is feared he will die. Although immediately pursued, the would be murderer, Andy O'Neal, had not up to latest accounts, been captured. He is a low, chunky, black negro, quick spoken and active, and can be easily identified. It is hoped he may be arrested and brought to justice. The two negroes who were with him were arrested on the spot.

OBITUARY.

A good man has gone to his reward. Col. John D. Hoxie died at his residence, in Jacksonville, on Monday, the 24th day of March, last. He was born in Lincoln, N. C., on the 9th day of September, 1803, and moved to Jacksonville in November, 1853; since which time he has been a resident of this place. He was one of our oldest, most prominent and useful citizens. In all the different relations of life, he bore himself above reproach—a devoted husband, a kind and indulgent father, a warm and generous friend, an honest and upright man.

In 1848 he was received into the Communion of the Episcopal Church, by the Holy Rite of Confirmation, and in his daily walk and conversation exemplified the beautiful precepts of Christianity. Like all others, his lot in life was one of mingled joy and sorrow—he was happy in the loved society of wife, children and friends; by industry and energy he had accumulated a competent fortune. He saw child after child, without his tenderly loved, smitten by the hour frost of death, and like young blossoms fall, one by one, from the tree of life.

Like many others, he saw his property swept from him by the visitations of war. Not he neither nurtured or reaped at these chastisements of a good and merciful God. But in the evening of life, the hand of disease upon him, he girded up his strength, and with renewed energy, bravely struggled with the ills of fortune, anxious to accomplish his mission, manfully to complete his allotted task.

But as the darkness began to disappear, and through the riven clouds the light of hope again to shine in the heavens, he sank to his rest. It is the rest after the conflict of life—the race ended—the victory won; and now, in the bosom of his mother earth, his body peacefully awaits the resurrection morn.

That, so long bereaved while sitting in her widowed home, and the orphan children, we can offer no words of consolation that have not already suggested themselves a hundred times to their hearts.

They are believers in that sublime and beautiful doctrine of the Primitive Apostolic Church—the Communion of Saints—that the spirits of the just made perfect in Heaven and the spirits of the imperfect just on earth, form an unbroken brotherhood, and commune, one with the other, that the forms of the departed are visible in this lower orb to the eye of faith and their voices audible to the ear of love.

They can look up through their tears and say, "yet a little while" and we shall see them stand before us again, face to face, clothed upon with immortality.

In the meanwhile they are under the care and protection of their Heavenly Father, tenderer than any earthly parent to love, wiser to counsel, mightier to save.

MARCH 31st, 1873.

Editors Republican.—Suppose we have a call meeting of the Agricultural Society of Calhoun County, at the Court House, on the 2nd Monday of our Circuit Court, which sits next Monday week 2nd Monday in April. What say you? If the Society ever could be of any utility, this is the time when it should exert its influence.

The present aspect of Agricultural interests, demand of every farmer, his earnest untiring and united efforts to advance the general and special interests of Agriculture.

Will the officers and members arouse from their forgetfulness and meet at that time? Will many others, may we patriotic farmer attend. This is a trying time on the farmers and the people generally. Much of importance will come before the Society. Something of importance may be accomplished, and we hope will.

Respectfully, &c.

DIVERS MEMBERS.

P. S.—Since writing the above one of the members has received a communication of some importance from the "Department of Agriculture," which he wishes to lay before the Society for their consideration—and he is advised that there is on hand a quantity of Seeds &c., for distribution—who will meet on 2nd Monday in April and get some?

TALLADEGA, ALA.,
April 2nd, 1873.

Mr. Grant: Permit me to publish through the REPUBLICAN, the Sabbath School Convention which we propose to hold in Jacksonville during my next appointment in your place, beginning on Friday night, the 18th of April.

Friday night, sermon by Rev. J. C. Wright, of Oxford.

Saturday, address by Rev. E. T. Smyth of Oxford.

Saturday night, address by Rev. S. Henderson, of Alpine.

The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterwards into a more pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant was resorted to), but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time in administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by reinvigorating the fountain head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persuade until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the material of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pulchrum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

OLD AND GOOD.

Dr. Wm. Brazier's Liver Cordial has now been in use by the public for a quarter of a century, and its effects are so well known and its reputation as the best remedy for Biliousness, Jaundice and other liver diseases that is known.

READ THE TESTIMONY.

Corvinton P. O., Tipton Co., Tenn., Oct. 24, 1870.

Messrs. Mansfield & Hughes, Memphis, Tenn.

GENTLEMEN: Permit me to call your attention to the action of your Brazier's Liver Medicine in cases of old chronic chills. It is well known that when age becomes chronic, the trouble is frequently with the liver, and that quinine, unaided, will then have no curative power. I find this illustrated in my own case, having had three-day chills for several years, while residing in Shelby county, Tenn., Mississippi, on White river, Ark., and near this place. My condition being that of teaching, I found much trouble from these chills which seemed to be gradually undermining my constitution; yet no preparation or prescription that I tried afforded me more than temporary relief. A series of circumstances induced me to give your Brazier's Liver Medicine a trial, and it acted like a charm, effecting rapidly a perfect cure. The action of this medicine upon the liver is certainly very remarkable, and its effect upon my general health has been such as not only to give me great pleasure, but to give the medicine quite an increased reputation in this neighborhood.

ENTERPRISE IN BUSINESS.

We like enterprise, and we know of no class of business men displaying more of it than the newspaper publishers of America. The Publishers of Our Fireside Friend, Chicago, announce this week in our columns, their second Annual Distribution of premiums to subscribers. This excellent story and Family weekly is now in its third volume. Its success has been great. It is firmly established as one of the leading weeklies of the Union, with the largest circulation of any paper in the West. Its success may be no slight degree be attributed to its method of distributing premiums which is permanent with this paper, being held annually. Its distribution last year gave general satisfaction. WHOLE NO. 1878.

The Press Association.

In this city yesterday, waiters or conductors of the Birmingham railroad, and other persons, who were engaged in the sale and transportation of cotton, pointed which way to the city of Birmingham, on the 15th of May. It is probable that a gathering of more importance, to the Press and to Alabama for a large, has not been held since the late war, for the discussion of having careful deliberation and discussion, it was thought best not to do so until the meeting at Birmingham, and at that meeting it is hoped every newspaper, having the welfare of Alabama in view, will be present. The President and members of the Montgomery Board of Trade and to the Arlington Club the Association center thanks for courtesies extended them yesterday.

— "Soapweed" is the name of an agreeable vegetable growing in Colorado Territory. How it works may be inferred from what happened to a newly arrived young lady who took a stroll out of Denver recently. After walking some of the miles, she grew weary and looked around for something to sit down on. Spying a large bunch of soapweed, she went to it and sat herself down, not gently, but with considerable suddenness. As she rose a distance of about fifteen feet in the air, immediately thereafter, she evolved a sound that is described by those who heard it as a regular blood-curdler. Hereafter, whenever she will carry a cushioned chair-chairs with her when she makes excursions in the suburbs. An obese German gentleman, who had been down the road with some precipitation and the crowd attracted by his roars, explained: "The shoost comes out mit mine cane for an leetle walk, unt I gits pooty damp tired, unt I shoost sits down or dot booch, unt mine Gert in himmelf! how I gits booch, unt I shoost sits down or dot booch." Soapweed is a mass of spines, very delicate, beautiful and penetrating.

Rust in Wheat.

R. Y. M., Abington, Va., writes to the Southern Farmer and Home: "While I have had wheat for some time, I have not until this year discovered an infallible cure for the rust in wheat. I believe I have found the means of preventing rust in four crops out of five perhaps more. You remember how destructive rust was to the last crop in Maryland and the wheat, producing southern of the South. I raised as fine a crop as ever I had in my life, and I am an old farmer, while all my neighbors crops were ruined by rust. I attribute my escape to top dressing my wheat in March with ground bone, producing about twelve bushels to the acre. I got the idea from (I forgot the name) who recommended ashes not only as a preventative of rust but as the best manure for growing wheat. My experiment was so successful that I mean to top dress my crop this year if I have to buy and mill my ashes.

There are a good many Congressmen who have not (yet) drawn their increased pay, and some of them are telling the folks at home that they "have not drawn it." But the amount undrawn stands to their credit, and will be available to themselves or their heirs at any time, even far years to come, until the account is actually closed by receipt for the money. The honest way is to draw the increased dividend and convert it into the national Treasury. The dishonest way is to say "I have not drawn it," and then to quietly pocket it hereafter.

A singular discovery has been made at the Conciergerie in Paris. At the Court of Cassation fire had destroyed two out of the three towers, and a few days since the Conciergerie was being repaired that named after St. Louis, when suddenly upon a mysteriously deep well this was contrived curiously in the wall facing the quay, and proves to be nothing less than the fatal dungeon of the old Palace of St. Louis. Yet none of the historians of the Conciergerie knew of this, and the discovery has not yet been made known. An opening of two square yards in one of the turret reveals a horrid tunnel reaching the level of the Seine. There it forms a gallery sloping downwards to the bed of the river. The attempt to penetrate into this fatal dungeon was fruitless, as the interior was lined with sharp iron spears and points which crossed each other in every direction. When this tower of St. Louis was used occasionally as the dwelling of the Kings of France captives of note were confined in its underground prisons, and when the powers that were needed to be kept in the tower, and when they led him through the passages formed in the interior of the wall towards this newly-discovered dungeon. A secret door was opened, and he precipitated into the yawning chasm, and there transfixed by spikes, he perished in slow agony. Of course, the mass of skeletons that it was only portions of skeletons that ever reached the bed of the Seine.

At Middleburg, Pa., says the Post, that place, a man named Kilworth died lately, of a long career of brief but stormy marriages. He came there from Hartford, Conn., last spring, attended in curiously patched garments and accompanied by a dog, and hired a room in which to print for himself "an incoherent and unimpressive account of the 'End of the End.'" From long consideration of the passage in Revelations; "And he laid hold on Satan and bound him—thousand years; after which he must be loosed for a little season," he had been impressed with the idea that the season of diabolic rule had commenced, and that men could avoid its influence only by abstaining rigidly from all physical goodness. To maintain his own health, he took to eating his own excrement, and by abstaining rigidly from all physical goodness. To maintain his own health, he took to eating his own excrement, and by abstaining rigidly from all physical goodness. To maintain his own health, he took to eating his own excrement, and by abstaining rigidly from all physical goodness.

Random Verses.

This morn the sun rose bright and clear,

And seemed in gladness shining,

But now behold, its beams appear

In Western skies declining.

Thus sanguine men the world begin,

With prospects bright before them;

As life speeds so, the light grows dim,

And darkness soon comes o'er them.

With me, the flowers of hope decay,

My path no more adorning;

One by one they've passed away,

As dew-drops in the morning.

Bereft of all that might elate,

Of all that once was shining,

Oh, life me meets the life of fate,

And bows without repining.

'Tis folly all to seek delight

In such a world of sorrow;

Woe follows woe as shades of night

Success each dawn of morning.

If transient joys are sometimes caught

From fortune, false, or beauty,

Alas, they're almost always bought

At some expense of duty.

Oh, who, in manhood ever met

The joy his youth expected?

And who, in life, has never wept

O'er ruin'd hopes, or dejected?

Oh, are we soonest called to sigh

Over the things we deem the dearest,

And when we fancy pleasure nigh,

Oh, misery then is nearest.

But there's a fairer land than this,

Where man may reap eternal bliss,

Without lament or grieving.

A lovely land, where nothing fades,

Affection knows no blighting;

And disappointment throws no shades

O'er hopes that are inviting.

Then thither let me wend my way,

My life no longer wasting

On seeming joys, which fade like day,

Or turn to gall in tasting.

That lovely home, that brighter sphere,

Of purity and brightness,

Is spread for all who travel here

In piety's uprightness.

A FIRE PANIC.

Frightful Fires Throughout Virginia—Special Dispatches from Danville, Burklville, Norfolk and

Gordonsville—Pine Timber, Farm

Buildings, Residences and Railroad Property Burned.

RICHMOND, Va., April 9, 1873.

From many quarters of the State accounts have been received of extensive fires in the woods, by which much damage has been done to houses, barns, fences, railroad tracks and other property. There was a report this evening that Danville was on fire and the destruction of the city threatened; another of a destructive fire at Gordonsville, where a railroad depot was destroyed; while by dispatch from Norfolk comes an account of the ravages of the fire in the Dismal

Swamp, which extends over a large area of territory. The fires have been caused by very dry weather, which prevailed for some time throughout this section.

THE SITUATION FROM DANVILLE.

A telegram from Danville says:

"We have had a furious gale here to-day, and several fires broke out in the town, which at one time was thought to be in great danger. A horse was burned at Jackson's

Branch, a negro settlement, half a mile from here. The woods and fields in the western part of Danville are now on fire; the loss cannot yet be estimated, but it will be heavy. Large fires are reported to have started in the woods near Leaksville, N. C., and have followed down the Dan-River nearly to this place. There has been nothing definite yet heard from them. The loss to farmers is supposed to be very heavy. There is considerable excitement in the city."

FRIGHTFUL DESTRUCTION NEAR

BURKVILLE.

From Burkville a telegram says:

"Fires have been burning in the woods and old fields, in this vicinity since yesterday evening. Last night they could be seen in several directions, and reached the barn of

Mr. Keys, recently from Pennsylvania, destroying it, with a lot of timber. To-day the wind has been very high, feeding the flames. The barn of Mrs. Martha Bradshaw, living near the Southside Railroad, three miles west of here, was burned to-day. This evening the fires reached the Richmond and Danville road, some four miles west of here, burning along the track for about two or three miles, destroying considerable wood belonging to the company and damaging the track. The sills were burned and iron kinked. Both the Eastward and Westward bound passenger trains were delayed about an hour, but they passed over safely. It

We were pleased to receive a call last Thursday from Mr. Chas. Johnson, representing that excellent paper, the Montgomery Advertiser.

We are informed that Mr. E. G. Morris offers his valuable water power and manufacturing buildings at Morrisville, on Cane Creek, at whatever valuation commissioners may put upon it, as so much stock in a Cotton Factory, provided a Company can be raised.

Meek looking, thin sided, lank flanked calves that have lived all winter on nothing, are lying down and dying now when there is something to eat. As a general rule, grass don't agree with calves. They flourish best on stray pieces of newspaper, old sticks and dirt. This hint we throw out for the consideration of the Agricultural Society.

We have been shown a picture frame, made by Mr. Boyles of this place, which for uniqueness of design we have never seen surpassed. It was made entirely with his knife, consists of many hundreds of pieces and is joined together without the help of nails, tacks, screws or glue. The picture is held to its place by the self-adjustment of the frame. He is prepared to sell these frames, one of which can be seen at Crawford's furniture store.

South Alabamians who may wish to spend the Summer in the most delightful and health-giving climate in the world, are invited to Jacksonville. The pure water from the mountains becomes impregnated with iron in passing through the pipes for a distance of two miles, and is very healthy and palatable. Physicians prescribe it, and "red as a rose is she" may be said of every lady in Jacksonville who uses it.

The chromo, "Lost Babe," that we give to every subscriber of the LAND & LAW ADVISOR, a paper advertised in another column, is a very pretty picture. We have the chromos here, ready for delivery, as soon as the subscription prices. Three Dollars, is paid to us. The paper is an excellent one, and the chromo alone is worth the price of both. Call at this office and see both the paper and picture. apl 19-4t.

That remarkably curious old institution is not talking now as much as she did. She is afraid that when she tells anything, people will at once say: "Thou art the man" heretofore alluded to.

NOTE.—As the discussion of this subject is becoming somewhat dangerous, we will state that the old party does not live in Jacksonville. By no means. We've never talk about each other in Jacksonville. We've never too much regard for the teachings of St. Paul for that!

"In the Spring a livelier iris changes on the burnished dove;

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."

Sartainly! Anybody can perceive the force of that "observation," as Samuel Weller would remark, who but casts an eye around and lots it rest upon any one of the favorite promenades of the boys and girls of Jacksonville, any pretty evening. It was the same way when we were a boy. Ah! those dear, delightful days, when our voice was just changing tune, when we thought we could sing tenor (with tremolo attachment), and flirt, and knew it all, and run on good clothes and soap locks and musk and cinnamon drops and sich.

A girl in Jacksonville, Ala., has gone crazy with love. She met an attractive young man, and without leave or license, proceeded to fall in love with him, and cherished his memory, when he had gone until she, by some means, procured his picture, and then she used to sit up nights to gaze on it. The first intimation of the trouble he had occasioned was the news that she was raving wildly about him, and still she raved.

Montgomery Advance.

This is in advance of anything we have heard of, though wide awake and on the spot. We rather suspect that the Advance in the above is indulging in its favorite pastime and "lying like a dog a trotting." However, if we have a girl that raves over the picture of any youth of the city of Montgomery, the sooner the girl gets into the Tuscaloosa Asylum the better. A girl that would rave over the picture of a Montgomery youth, when we have so many better looking ones here in the flesh, would prefer dog fennel blossoms MeAllister, agent of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, is doing a splendid business. The Singer is said to be the best machine now made.

Circuit Court has been in session here since Monday, his Honor, Judge Whitlock presiding with his usual fairness and dignity. The Court only lasts two weeks, owing to a recent change in the law. Among the non-resident members of the bar present, we notice Hon. Jno. T. Hedlin, of Talladega, and Capt. Jas. Savage, of Centre.

Sunday night the freedmen of Jacksonville celebrated the first anniversary of their Benevolent Association with torch light procession etc. A fight or two among the least benevolent of the crowd was the consequence. Monday morning Earle Walker was up before his Honor, the Mayor, for indulging in a few familiar quotations, throwing rocks and "rarin' around generally." Ditto several others of the belligerents. Some twenty-five dollars of the skids was the tax laid by his Honor on the noble Earle and company.

ALMOST A FIRE.—Sunday night Mr. D. J. Privett, the efficient Foreman of our Fire Company, as he was ascending the hill leading from the spring up to town, discovered a bright blaze in rear and partly under the residence of Rev J. K. Armstrong. Comprehending the situation, he ran to the house, procured water and extinguished it. It proved to be an ash box on fire, placed partly under the house. The box had burned almost entirely up and the sill and weatherboarding was too hot to bear the hand on. In ten minutes more the fire would have been under full headway and probably the loss of thousands of dollars worth of property might have been the consequence. All of which proves that ash boxes ought to be discarded. This is the third fire in town within the past year originating from ash boxes.

We like to see anything that smacks of home industry or enterprise. A town with plenty of industrious and thoroughly enterprising men is bound to flourish, no matter how hard the times or how unpromising the prospect. Jacksonville has a few of the kind indicated. Among them no one stands out more prominent, according to means, than Mr. JOHN H. CRAWFORD, our old reliable stand-by in the furniture line. His home made furniture has a reputation far and wide for durability and finish; but as he grows older he finds himself unable to continue a large manufacture of it, and therefore he is gradually changing from the manufacturer to the dealer. His practical experience in the furniture business enables him to purchase with judgment the very best, the handsomest and most durable furniture of foreign manufacture. His Furniture Rooms will, after awhile, present as elegant an appearance as many of the more pretentious establishments of Atlanta and other neighboring cities. The only reason that he does not at once give us such an establishment is the want of adequate means at present. But what he cannot do at once, he is doing by degrees. Some days ago he received from Baltimore a very large shipment of every variety of ornamental brackets, towel racks and stands, wall pockets etc., as well as a lot of most beautiful walnut curving for furniture. It is his intention to bring on soon bedroom and parlor sets of every grade from the cheapest to that that is costly. Jacksonville and the country surrounding needs a good furniture store, and can have it by extending due encouragement to Mr. C. Let all of us who may design buying furniture, make our purchases through him.

A Great Invention.

We have been recently in conversation with Mr. Hix, the inventor and patentee of the Dry House, by an absorbent heater, an invention that is destined to come into universal use, and be of incalculable benefit to this and other countries. It is so arranged that the heat is perfectly under the control of the operator and can be intensified or diminished at will. It dries quickly and uniformly everything placed in it, from hickory and walnut timber (two woods that have heretofore been only dried by the cast fruits and vegetables. There is no use in the drying line to which it cannot be put with perfect success. Wagon timber can be perfectly dried in it within from fifteen to twenty days; householding lumber in three days and nights; fruits and vegetables within three days. Fruits dried in this house are superior to the sun dried, from the fact that the fly cannot get to it to deposit its egg while drying. The Shakers of Litchfield, Massachusetts first grated off the cob and dried by the old and tedious process, one hundred barrels of corn, which they sold readily, having orders for one hundred and fifty barrels more. In this dry house the corn can be dried on the cob in three days, retaining all its original sweetness, and would command much readier sale than that of the Massachusetts Quakers. Blackberries, very difficult to dry in the sun, and which command a ready market, can be dried by the hundreds of bushels in this house successfully in three days and be ready for market. So it is with tomatoes, the pea and every other kind of vegetable and fruit known. All these things now form an article of market, and are shipped to us from the North. By the use of this great invention we can reverse this order of things and ship North instead of buying as we do now from there. The invention is useful in other ways. Sweet potatoes when first dug can be placed in it and dried to a certain point, and be made to keep without fear of rot, so with apples and other green fruit of that description. For the purpose of drying tobacco it surpasses anything in ever known before.

We have seen a letter from a gentleman in Washington City, who has seen the model in the patent office, in which he proposes to buy the patent of Mr. Hix. He does not so desire, but he will sell State and County rights. Like all original inventors, he is threatened with a loss of the benefit of his invention, through financial inability to push it. Should he once get a start and find the means to bring it to the attention of the public, it will come into universal use. Some man with moderate means could join him, and in our opinion, realize a fortune in a short time.

Farm rights only a few dollars. Buildings already erected can be converted into a dry house with small cost. We hope our farmers will think of the matter and improve the fruit season, good only in this particular section, by the erection of these houses on their places.

the more than fifty. The ground heaved as a ship in a gale. Terrific thundering burst from underfoot. Walls tottered and were rent in many places with wide crevices. Roofs sunk, and tiles, &c., were precipitated to the ground. Lamps, pitchers, basins, glass, &c., were overturned and broken. Three violent shocks followed in succession, and the servants commenced to scream piteously, and could not be pacified. Wild birds flew to houses. Horses grew frantic in stables, and dogs howling slunk for protection. Every few minutes shakings of less violence occurred. The scene, beggars description; ruined houses, panic-stricken people, men, women and children fleeing to the fields, with valuables hastily collected. Then the ringing of the alarm bells and beating of drums called all the soldiers under arms; for in San Salvador murder and pillage accompanied the confusion of great earthquakes, and as the frightened citizens leave the dusky Indians from the forests prowled for prey into it, only checked by the bayonets of Government troops. These were posted in squads at short distances all over San Salvador.

LADIES.

Ladies everywhere are delighted with DeGree's Hair Restorer. It is clearly to use, free from deleterious ingredients, gloriously perfumed, gives the hair vigor, imparts to it a rich gloss, restores and preserves its natural color, causes new hair to spring forth, and is the best dressing in the world, being both a restorative and a preservative.

READ THE EVIDENCE.

Mrs. Sarah W. Fall, wife of Mr. J. T. S. Fall, of Nashville, Tennessee, a lady known in that city for her many sterling qualities, writes to us under date September 1st, 1868, that "she had no hesitation in recommending the Louisiana Curole Hair Restorer as a most valuable preparation, completely answering every purpose for which it is intended, and imparting a beautiful glossy appearance to the hair. For sale by all druggists."

HAIR ALIVE.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensual pleasure to their more robust and energetic fellow-beings.

In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterwards into a more pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant was resorted to), but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to the question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time in administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. For a few days the cure is complete, until the blood is to be the material of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

For the benefit of our lady readers who are engaged in the cultivation of shrubs and flowers, we copy the following from the Monthly Illustrated Catalogue of Briggs & Bro. Rochester, N. Y.

Flowering Plants Suitable for the South.

Some of our southern friends occasionally write us respecting the adaptability of plants for the South, that will succeed well during the whole of the summer, without succumbing to the long dry heat they are there subject to. Our southern friends should bear in mind that it is of the greatest importance that they secure for their plants a great depth of soil, for upon this will depend in a measure a great part of their success. To obtain the best success, the soil should be spaded to a good depth before planting; if as deep as fifteen or eighteen inches, so much the better, and if poor, a good dressing of manure should be spaded in. The depth of soil thus secured will cause the plants to send down their roots during the driest part of the season into the lower soil prepared for them, thus enabling them to more successfully withstand the hot dry weather, whereas plants planted on poor thin soils, would dry up and become exhausted. It is likewise important that all flower stems should be cut off as soon as they are out of bloom; by so doing, a second crop of flowers will in many instances be secured. As the season wears on, the plants will exhaust themselves in perfecting seed.

We have, after careful consideration concluded that nearly all of the following will be found to be well adapted for and will succeed well in the South. We would like to hear from any of our friends in regard to their success with their plants and flowers, as it will be somewhat of a guide to us on future occasions.

ANNUALS.—Abronia, Agave, Alcega, Allium, Anemone, Arisaema, Aster, Balsam, Brachyotum, Camellia, Cast-

volvulus, Dianthus, Eranthis, Eriogonum, Gaillardia, Lilium, Lupinus, Marigold, Martynia, Mesembryanthemum, Monarda, Myrica, Nicotiana, Paeonia, Phlox, Portulaca, Ruscus, Salvia, Saxifraga, Scilla, Senecio, Verbena, Zinnia.

CLIMBING PLANTS.—Cardiospermum, Cobaea, Convolvulus, Delphinium, Gourd Ornamental, Ipomoea, Lobelia, Perennials, Verbena, Zinnia.

PERENNIALS.—Aquilegia, Campanula, Caratena, Cauterina, Clivia, Dolichopetalum, Eranthis, Eriogonum, Gaillardia, Lilium, Lupinus, Marigold, Martynia, Mesembryanthemum, Monarda, Myrica, Nicotiana, Paeonia, Phlox, Portulaca, Ruscus, Salvia, Saxifraga, Scilla, Senecio, Verbena, Zinnia.

Some of the plants specified as Annuals, will in the South, live through the winter, and will assume their true character—Perennials.

The Tritoma is a superb plant for the South, and will give complete satisfaction. Anemone Japonica, and Alba, as well as Tricyrtis Grandiflora, will be found of great service.

WE WILL MAKE SPECIAL SELECTIONS.—Sometimes our friends write us enclosing money, stating that they wish to get some flower seeds, but do not know what kinds would be best for them to order that would be adapted to their wants. To all such, we say that we shall endeavor to assist them with our experience and judgment in selecting none but the best varieties adapted to the purpose and wants of those who wish to use, giving a description of their location and soil, &c., likewise stating if flowers are wanted for show or for frequent cutting for bouquets, &c.

The Eastman Atlanta Business College.

This Institution has achieved a success which is unparalleled in the history of Commercial Colleges. Starting in Atlanta, Ga., May 9th, 1871, with four students, it has already sent out to the business world nearly THREE HUNDRED STUDENTS to attest its superior merits. The secret of its wonderful success is, it is the only College in the South that is conducted on the ACTUAL BUSINESS PLAN. It keeps up to the letter of its advertisements. It is conducted by men who have had years of experience as practical accountants, business men, and teachers. The total cost for a full course including board, washing, tuition, books, and stationery will not exceed $130.

POETRY.

WAX-FARERS.

The way is long my darling,
The road is rough and steep,
And fast across the evening sky
I see the shadows sweep.
But, oh! my love, my darling,
No ill to us can come,
No terror turns us from the path,
For we are going home.
Your feet are tired, my darling—
So tired, the tender feet;
Do think, when you are here at last,
How sweet the road will seem.
For the lamps are lighted,
And yonder gleaming dome,
Before us, shining like a star,
Shall guide our footsteps home.
We've lost the flowers we gathered
So early in the morn;
And on we go, with empty hands
And garments soiled and worn.
But, oh! the dear old Father
Will wait to meet us come,
And gather round him and his robes
There wait for us at home.
Art cold, my love, and faint?
Art faint and sore at heart?
Be patient yet a little while,
And joyous as at first;
For oh! the sun sets never Within that land of bloom,
And thou shalt see the life of life,
And drink life's wine at home.
The wind blows cold my darling,
Adown the mountain steep,
And thick across the evening sky
The dark shadows creep;
But, oh! my love, press onward,
Whichever way you turn,
For in the way the Father set
We two are going home.

DOES IT MEAN WAR?

All the Available Troops in the Country
Concentrated Along the Rio Grande
Seven Regiments Now on the Ground
Secretary Belknap, Phil Sheridan and the Old General in Consultation.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, March 29, 1873.
Are we drifting into a war? Is General Grant preparing the way for that millennium when the world shall become one nation, speaking one language and when armies and navies will no longer be required, by adding, no longer, our sick and lawless neighbor on the Rio Grande to our glorious constellation of States? Is it a menace, an army of protection or an army of invasion that our troops are concentrating in Texas, and particularly on its western boundary?

These are questions that are being asked by every one hereabouts—by those who for years have been predicting that such an event would soon come to pass, as well as by those who have laughed at the idea as chimerical. For the last five years a war with Mexico has seemed possible, but never before has it appeared probable. For months past an activity in the military, unusual in these piping times of peace, has prevailed in this State. Troops changing station, repairs and refittings in the Quartermaster's Department and relocations are the order of the day. The Rio Grande, between Laredo and Brownsville, which not long since was almost entirely without cavalry, an arm of the service most necessary there, has now the Ninth Cavalry. General Edward Hatch in command, with headquarters at Big Bend, besides the Twenty-fourth Infantry General Doubleday in command, with headquarters at Brownsville; while at Fort Clark, fifteen miles distant from the Rio Grande, ten companies of the Fourth Cavalry will soon be concentrated under General McKenzie, an officer who though young in years and with a reputation that would already satisfy many older men is ambitious in seeking fresh laurels. It is also believed that the troops occupying the northern and north-eastern frontier of Texas are under orders.

The following is a list of the regiments now stationed in Texas, with their respective commanding officers, viz: Fourth Cavalry, Colonel R. S. McKenzie. Ninth Cavalry Colonel Edward Hatch. Tenth Infantry, Lieutenant Colonel A. D. McCook. Eleventh Infantry, Colonel W. H. Wood. Twenty-fourth Infantry, Colonel Doubleday. Twenty-fifth Infantry, Colonel Andrews.

All of which can be made disposable by the addition of two regiments from General Pope's command. The nineteenth Infantry, in New Orleans, could also be added, so that in six weeks an available force of 5,000 regulars can be thrown on the Rio Grande. Texas would be glad to add 5,000 of her horsemen, which, acting as irregular cavalry, would be difficult to surpass. And in New Mexico another column of 5,000 regulars and volunteers may be readily organized. These are facts and which there is no secrecy, and which, it seems to me, are significant of future events. General Augur, commanding this department, returned yesterday from a trip to the Rio Grande, and we are hourly expecting General Belknap, Secretary of War, together with General Sheridan. If any fighting is to be done, by whom should the word "Go" be given if not by Sheridan, the fighter par excellence? The names of Augur, McCook, Doubleday and others known to us years before our late error was lamented war are guarantees of success.

That the annexation of Mexico, or a removal of our frontier further west, is justifiable and necessary is beyond dispute. Witness our stolen lands, our murdered citizens. Witness too those roving Indians, our pest and our terror who find in her towns already market for their plunder and a refuge from our troops. Forbearance ceases to be a virtue with such a menace staring us in the face for years. But our sister Republic, is the cry. A Republic for the south of nations and military divided. A Republic preying on itself, semi-civilized, inane.

Senator Schurz and the Salary Steal [From the St. Louis Democrat.—Rep.] We record with great pleasure the fact that Senator Schurz declined to receive the $5,000 of back pay voted by the last Congress; and with equal pleasure we record a similar fact in favor of Vice-President Wilson. But we confess to more concern for the future than for the past of the increased pay. When all is told about the money refunded, makes an honorable record for those who refused, but it only reduces by a trifle the amount of steel which will at this rate foot up a million and a half. Let those who have got the money stop it, and much good may it do them. We object, however, to having the steel repeated every future Congress, and therefore we insist upon agitating the question of repeal of an issue in all future campaigns, until accomplished. Mr. Erasmus Wells, member from the Second District of this city, promises to introduce a bill on the first day of the December session to re-establish the old rate of $5,000 per annum. By so doing he will entitle himself to the applause of the country, and the man who votes against him may bid farewell to public life.

A True Story of General Lee's Surrender.—An Orchard of Relics.

["Viator" in Richmond Dispatch.]

"The situation" at Appomattox on the 9th of April 1865, when

Gen. Lee sent a flag of truce to ask an interview with Gen. Grant, was simply this: There were only 7,500 jaded, famished Confederates with arms in their hands, nearly surrounded by eighty thousand Federal soldiers, already in position, with re-enforcements constantly arriving. Gordon fell back through the village and moved to meet an attack of Sheridan on the flank, while

Gen. Chamberlayne led the advance corps of the Army of the James into the Court-house. A battery of the Richmond Howitzers, which had been engaged at Big Bethel in 1861, stationed in the yard of Mr.

Peers, on the extreme northeast corner of the village, fired the last gun of the day and withdrew as the blue waves were encircling it. The Federal picket line was advanced beyond the village, and that little band of heroic spirits seemed about to be immolated, when suddenly the white flag was displayed, and the firing ceased. There have been published so many sensational reports of the meeting between the two commanders that I am glad to be able to refute them by giving

GEN. LEE'S OWN ACCOUNT OF WHAT

OCCURRED,

as he gave it to some friends at his house in Lexington, but a few days before his last illness. He said that he had for duty that morning not eight thousand men, and that when he learned from Gordon that there was a heavy infantry force in his front, he decided to see General Grant and ascertain the terms upon which he could end the contest. But before going to meet him he left orders with Longstreet and Gordon to hold their commands in readiness, determined, as he was to cut his way through or perish in the attempt, such terms were granted as he thought his army entitled to demand. He met General Grant between the picket lines, in the open field, about two hundred yards below Appomattox Court-house.

THE HISTORIC APPLE TREE.

"You met under an apple tree, did you not, General?" asked a gentleman present. "No, sir," was the reply; "we did not meet under an apple tree, and I saw no tree near. It was in an open field not far from the main road." [This explodes the "historic apple tree," about which so much has been said.
